

Nicholas Omana

v * o * i * c * e * o * v * e * r

Voice-over talent Nicholas Omana has been making his living doing voice-overs for over 35 years in Los Angeles. His talents have been heard on commercials for Bank of America, Butterball, Clorox, Dole, Excedrin, GMC Truck, L.L. Bean, National Assn. of Realtors, Oregon Lottery, Southwest Airlines, Kroger Stores, and North Carolina Education Lottery, as well as numerous commercials for Armed Forces Radio.

For 8 seasons, Nick was the live, in-show announcer for NBC's Last Comic Standing; he has done T.V. promos for CBS, NBC, as well as various syndicated programs, and for 9 years, was the voice of Fox Cable Net. Nick has created hundreds of character voices for Disney, Hanna-Barbera, and Warner Brothers, including shows like Smurfs, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, Winnie the Pooh, Duck Tales, and Captain Planet. Nick has voiced numerous characters for video game makers Blizzard Entertainment, Blindlight, and Bright Skull for games such as World of Warcraft, X-Men, James Bond: Golden Eye 2, Enter the Matrix, and several others that can't be mentioned at this time because of NDA's (Non-Disclosure Agreements). Nick also has a talent for barking like a dog (yes, a real dog), which can be heard in the Electronic Arts Sim City 3 Pet Expansion Pack release. He has narrated "True Hollywood Stories" and "Celebrity Profiles" for E Entertainment Television.

For 22 years, Nick has been the voice of training for the U.S. Navy and other branches of the military and apologizes to any active and retired veterans for the number of times you have had to listen to his voice!

Nick is an accomplished producer/director/writer in the commercial field as well as in animation. Since 7-7-07, Nick has enjoyed doing stand-up comedy at The Improv, The Comedy Store, and other clubs in the western states.

Nicholas Omana

v * o * i * c * e * o * v * e * r

Nick also considers himself the luckiest man on the planet for a number of reasons.